Plan Estimate

Freedom, tolerance, compromise and co-operation were held up as the four cornerstones of liberalism by Hon. Norman Rogers, federal minister of labor, in an address on "Canadian Problems—A Liberal Point of View," at the first of the Pickering College forums last Thursday evening.

Headmaster Joseph McCulley explained that the series would include addresses from a Liberal, a Conservative and from a Progressive point of view.

W. P. Mulock, M.P., introduced Mr. Rogers. Before he won a Kingston seat for the Liberal party, Mr. Rogers was a professor of political science at Queen's University, said Col. Mulock.

Mr. Rogers dealt first with "the problem of industry and trade." "It is the duty of government to strive to increase and divide the income of the nation," said Mr. Rogers. "One view is that the best way to increase the

Edgar Bogart Loved Native
Town And Every Year
Of Its History

Loved by everyone and loving every stick and stone that could be called Newmarket, Edgar Bogart died at York county hospital on Friday in his 75th year. Steeped in the history of Newmarket, Mr. Bogart cherished every relic of pioneer days that he could gather up. His mind was a treasure-house of information concerning the people of Newmarket. He could trace the genealogy of any of the old Newmarket families, and when called upon could summon from the depths of his memory amazing details concerning people long gone and by many forgotten.

With all his love of old things, for his home on Prospect St., where he lived a bachelor life, was piled deep with relics, manuscripts and clippings, many of which should be preserved in a Newmarket archives and museum, Edgar Bogart was young at heart. He was an enthusiastic tree-planter. He gave trees to the town and he planted trees on his own beautiful grounds. Another evidence of his youthfulness was his impatience with unprogressiveness. He would write indignant articles for The Era, exclaiming at the failure of citizens or the powers that be to beautify the town. Still again, he loved to entertain young people. He was fond of taking a group of young men away on a motor-trip for a dinner party in Toronto or Stayner, a favorite destination. He took a special interest in the R. S. A. Bugle band and gave this new organization a great deal of help. On Monday evening of this week a group of ten young men were guests of Mr. Bogart at the skating carnival in Toronto. Mr. Bogart had arranged this treat last week before his sudden failure.

One of the most interesting chapters in Mr. Bogart's life was his stay at the hospital. Last year while on the roof of his house he fell and broke his arm. He went to the hospital and when Editor, The Era: If you think this worth printing, just send me a copy.

I've had four or five letters, all from out of Newmarket, asking for more. I'm so glad they enjoyed hearing of the "old days" and thank you for giving me so much space. Best of all, I got in touch with my beloved teacher, "Miss Evans," once more. Sincerely, K. M. Adie.

Dear Classmates: Do you remember away back in the 80's? When the Sunday-school Christmas tree was probably the only one we saw, as we hung up our stockings at home on Christmas eve, and received additional gifts at the breakfast table?

When we got candy off the tree in red tarlatan bags, sewed together with bright contrasting wool?

When the Episcopal church had a bazaar before Christmas, in a store near the Post Office (I bought colored paper flowers, but before I'd gone a block, went back and exchanged them for a handkerchief case)?

When we went sledding on the "lively stable hill," next to the Christian church? I broke my sled there, but got scant sympathy at home as I'd been forbidden to go there.

When we went skating on the mill pond, and adjusted our clump skates to our shoes in the pumping station next to the Presbyterian church?

When farther back than that, there was an ice-skating rink on Timothy St., just back of Main St.?

When we wore soft leather Indian moccasins, with two pairs of hose, the outer rolled neatly over the top of the moccasin, fine if the snow wasn't too hard?

When we stole a ride on the back of a farmer's sleigh, or one taking logs to Cane's factory, forerunner to hitch hiking, without benefit of the thumb?

When little girls as well as boys wore copper-toed shoes to school?

When we had a spelling or geography bee in school, once in a while on Friday afternoon? Think we could have shown the radio some spelling?

When some visitor walked in his sleep off the second story porch roof of Robertson's bakery, and was killed?

When the G.T.R. had a wreck, with some loss of life, just a little north of the depot, and the station-master, Mr. Tait, lost his job thereby?

When the Christian church had its Harvest Home festival and special Sunday service? Such an array of fowl and pastry, pickles and cake, as was spread out at that supper, once seen can never be forgotten. The Sunday service was enhanced by harvest decorations, and canaries singing wildly in their cages, loudly enough to drown out the voice of Elder Hainer and he was noted for his strong lungs.

When Miss Evans took her class to the woods one Friday afternoon, in the spring of 1891 or 1892, to gather wild flowers for the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto? She personally delivered these the next day. Think of the labor of sorting and tying these up.

When, in danger of being tempted to sample our daily apple before recess, we deposited it on the teacher's desk for safekeeping? Gum was strictly taboo and found its way into the waste basket at once.

When it was considered an honor to take the chalk-filled brushes outside, and beat them against the wall, thereby covering oneself with chalk dust?

When some of the young ladies of Newmarket appeared at a ball—shall we say a "light" Merry Christmas.

Katie Smith.

P. S.—If there is to be a reunion this summer, I'd like to be there.

Selected For Showing
Of Prize Birds

The annual Newmarket Christmas market is on Wednesday, Dec. 21. Plans are under way to make it bigger and better than ever, says T. F. Doyle, one of the chief promoters of this popular event.

Farmers can help by entering the prize market competition and by putting a little extra finish on their poultry. Citizens can help by attending the exhibition in the town hall and the general market in the market building. All the regular wholesale buyers and some extra buyers from Toronto will be on hand. Farmers are assured of being paid good prices.

The Santa Claus parade has been postponed until Saturday, Dec. 17. Bring the kiddies to Newmarket to see Santa Claus and his clowns.

Candy and nuts will be distributed to the children after the parade.

Dutch Settlers Strive To Save Sabbath, Says Old Boy

Recalls How Lights Sizzled
When He Was A Boy
In Newmarket

Son of a pastor of Trinity Methodist church from 1888 to 1889, Rev. G. C. Webber preached at Trinity United church last Sunday morning, speaking on the work of the Lord's Day Alliance, for which he has been the general secretary for the last year.

Mr. Webber recalled attending church there as a boy, and remembered the time when electric lights were first installed in the town and in the church. They were the old-fashioned arc lights, he explained, which emitted a continuous sizzle, against which the preacher had to contend. They also gave off considerable heat, he said.

The last time Mr. Webber was in Trinity pulpit was when he was a student minister on the Queensville-Sharon circuit. Shortly after his ordination he went to the west, where he spent 32 years. For the last ten years of this time he was field secretary for the Lord's Day Alliance for the western provinces.

"Ontario faces some very difficult and definite problems so far as Sunday is concerned," said Mr. Webber. He could recall the time, he said, when the first non-Anglo-Saxon merchant opened a store in a certain part of Toronto, and now there are many sections where they are in the majority, threatening the freedom of English-speaking merchants, as regards observance of Sunday.

"They have no Christian background," he said, "and attempt to carry on business, contrary to law and to the best interests of the community."

The Sunday purchaser has responsibilities, as well as the Sunday merchant, he said, and should not disregard the rights of others.

Speaking of the many nationalities living on the Holland Marsh, including Dutch, German, Czechs, Japanese, Chinese and a few Anglo-Saxons, Mr. Webber said that recently some people from there had come to his office, asking for help in observance of Sunday. He made two visits to the marsh as a result.

"The Dutch community is anxious for its Sunday," he said.

J. L. Spillette and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hughes attended the funeral of an old friend, Robert Stewart, in Churchhill on Tuesday afternoon.

Mayor Mistaken, States Doctor

Taking exception to a statement made by Mayor Dr. S. J. Boyd, as reported last week as follows: "In the last analysis every doctor in town, except myself, will get a reduction in his business tax, although I am entitled to a larger reduction than any of the others," Dr. J. C. R. Edwards stated that, accepting Dr. Boyd's statement that he was over-assessed $150, Dr. Boyd's over-payment of taxes would amount to $7.

"The other doctors, whose business assessments had been from $400 to $975 greater than Dr. Boyd's, had overpaid the town sums varying from $93 to $45," said Dr. Edwards.

"Dr. Boyd's assessment was pretty nearly right," said Dr. Edwards. "As far as I know, none of the doctors have complained or thought of appealing their assessment, even though entitled by law to a reduction. I do not intend, nor so far as I know, do any of the doctors intend, to ask for any rebate of the taxes overpaid to the town. I believe that they are all as ready as anyone else to carry their share of the tax burden."

"I have no thought of entering a controversy, but just wish to clear up doubts and rumors caused by last week's court of revision."

"It is not necessary for heavy tractors to be used, people to work and merchants with trucks from Toronto and Hamilton, to come and buy produce on Sunday."

"Our leaders, whether political or religious, should be prepared to defend Sunday from commercialism and secularization, as a patriotic duty. If we would save our souls, we must save our Sunday."

King Needs Trees Surveyor Thinks

Once strong streams and springs have dried up, forests are gone and game and fish have disappeared in King township, according to Kenneth M. Mayall, M.A., who spoke on the natural history of King township, to the Toronto Field Naturalists Club, at the Royal Ontario Museum in Toronto on Monday evening.

Mr. Mayall has been conducting an extensive survey of King township, with respect to the effects of deforestation and swamp drainage on agriculture, on water levels and on wild life. This survey was financed by Aubrey Davis, Newmarket.

Mr. Mayall showed a number of slides, some illustrating the drying up of lakes and ponds, and the consequent disappearance of fish. The water situation is bad, he said. In describing the soil of King township, Mr. Mayall explained how the mixed vegetation has resulted from the movements of glaciers, etc. Shale was the bed-rock of King township, he said.

Twenty-five per cent of the township should be forested, Mr. Mayall said, which would mean an increase of 15 per cent. Seven hundred acres are available for planting. Seven hundred acres of trees would mean a million trees, planting 1,600 to the acre.

"Two or three small nurseries are needed to aid in the project," the speaker explained. "These would be used to house the small trees before planting and to acclimatize certain plants."

Mr. Mayall showed pictures illustrating the poor pastures and the effect on trees of being trampled down by cattle. When the new shops are trampled down, the trees die at the top.

Six hundred and fifty farmers were interviewed during the survey. A vote of thanks to Mr. Mayall was moved by Rev. Brother Dennis of De La Salle College.

Among the bequests of Edgar Bogart are a handsome gift of $250 to the R. S. A. Bugle Band to hold three annual banquets on his birthday, and $1,600 to Newmarket high school to endow the annual prize in memory of his mother. About 225 young people gathered at the Christian church on Tuesday evening to take part in the worship service of the Senior Christian Endeavour society. The town churches were represented by the United, Friends, Gospel Tabernacle and Presbyterian churches and representatives were also present from the Holland Landing United church, who had 20 present, and the Keswick, Stouffville, Ringwood, Bloomington and Olivet Christian churches.

Harold Hilton, the president, took charge of the meeting and introduced the guest speaker, Rev. Arthur Greer of Knox Presbyterian church, Toronto, who chose for his subject, "Putting first things first."

Miss Evelyn Travels, Miss Muriel Olsen, Mrs. Merlyn Wilder and Mrs. Harold Hilton contributed a very lovely quartette. Following the devotional part of the program, everyone adjourned to the Sunday-school room for a lively sing-song led by Mr. Greer and refreshments were later served.

Sang In Choir Sunday Morning

Sudden death of Wm. Williams, Gorham St., on Sunday evening in his 63rd year, was a shock to a wide circle of friends and relatives.

While he had not been enjoying the best of health for the past few months, he had been able to attend his work, and had been to service at Trinity United church, Newmarket, in the morning, and sang in the choir as usual. He was a valued member of the church and choir.

Mr. Williams was a man who took a keen interest in the affairs of the community and will be much missed in many activities. In politics he was a staunch Conservative, but harbored no political grudges for those who did not see eye to eye with him. He was a farmer.

Never married, Mr. Williams leaves to mourn his loss two sisters, Minnie, who lived with him, and Mrs. Alex. Rutledge, Newmarket; a brother, Richard, Stouffville; and three nephews and five nieces. Two sisters predeceased him.

Son of Hannah Palmer and John Williams, he was born at Eagle and Yonge Sts. 33 years ago this coming January. The family moved to Bloomington, where he spent about 25 years. The latter part of his life was spent in this vicinity.

The funeral service, which was conducted on Tuesday by Rev. C. E. Fackler, an old school friend, of Keswick, and Rev. R. R. McMath, at the home of his sister, Mrs. Rutledge, was largely attended. Interment was at Newmarket cemetery.

Palbearers were Wilford Duff, W. E. Morton, H. N. Graham, L. P. Cane, C. F. Willis and Marvin Rutledge, Holt.

Brother Works In N.S. Mine Father Killed Years Ago

Tragedy Casts Gloom Over
Nova Scotia Mining
Town

Sydney Mines, Nova Scotia, where perhaps 20 lives were lost in a mining disaster this week, is the former home of Gordon Purchase, Newmarket manager of the Yorkdale Co-operative. He has received no word as yet about his brother who works in the mine, but has not seen his name in the list of casualties.

"It is a town of 9,000 people," said Mr. Purchase. "Practically all the men are known to me. Some of them were town councillors and men prominent in the town's affairs. These men were the very best miners."

Mr. Purchase's own father was killed in an explosion in the same Princess colliery 27 years ago.

Two hundred and fifty men were in the trolley-train which ran wild down a steep incline into the mine when a cable broke. In addition to the dead and dying, many were seriously injured.

Honor President On Retirement

The Women's Association of Trinity United church held their last regular meeting for the year on Thursday, Dec. 1. Mrs. George Russell, president, presided. A group of ladies from Yonge St. took charge of the meeting and gave a very fine Christmas program.

The devotional period was taken by Mrs. Elton Armstrong, who presented the Christmas story in a most interesting way. Mrs. Dunne contributed a suitable solo. Mrs. Olson and Mrs. Jones gave a detailed account of the interesting work accomplished by the Yonge St. ladies at their monthly sewing meetings.

A report from the convenor of the visiting committee, Mrs. H. Molyneux, showed 146 visits were made among the people—particularly among the sick, shut-ins and strangers.

A report from Mrs. R. Howlett, the flower convenor, was interesting. Many sick and shut-ins were remembered. Mrs. Howlett expressed thanks to Mrs. L. P. Cane and to the different societies who supplied flowers for one month for the church.

Mrs. H. M. Hooker, treasurer, reported over $1,200 had been raised and a cheque for $350 was sent to the church.

HIGH SCHOOL EXTENSION

Apparently most property-owners are opposed to an extension to the high school building for the teaching of shopwork and household science. The by-law was defeated decisively. We are very sorry, because we thought it was a progressive move. Following announcement of the result of the vote, we discussed the outcome with quite a few citizens, to the increase of our own information. We learned several things.

What The People Think

One opinion we heard was that people were so heavily burdened with taxes that no money by-law would carry at the present time. Another thing we learned is that quite a few factory workers were of the opinion that the new courses would be of no practical value. The opinion seemed to be that the shopwork would just turn a young fellow's head, and prevent him from learning quickly when he did start work in a factory. Another thought was that, in these days of putting older men on the shelf, it was asking a little too much to have a workman pay taxes to train someone to take his own job. The two ideas, both to be found on the street, are contradictory, but both helped to kill the by-law.

Not Enough Information

Another thought that we heard was that the high school board had not started soon enough to acquaint the public with the proposal. A number of people with whom we discussed the question thought that many people had not understood the proposal and had consequently voted against it. Some even went so far as to say that the burst of last-minute publicity made some afraid that something was being "put over."

Board Still Right

That's what we heard. And here's what we think. The department of education under Dr. Duncan McArthur, deputy-minister of education, has been progressive and has offered a new curriculum in public and high schools which is receiving a real welcome from students, teachers and parents. We think that our high school board did the right thing and the only thing in asking the town council to put the proposal for additional accommodation before the ratepayers. We think that the high school board should not be discouraged or offended because a majority of property-owners, many of them without any interest in the school, voted against the expenditure. We believe that the high school board should arrange for a full discussion of this subject during the coming year, and ask for another vote as soon as there is evidence of a swing of opinion.

Press Can Help

There is one particular in which we believe that the high school board has been at fault in the past, and we speak of it more freely because we know that the members of the board agree. There has been no effort to have the press attend the meetings. Objection was made to the presence of the editor of The Era at a high school board meeting within the last two years. A vote was taken on whether he was to remain but a majority of the board favored the presence of the press. That established the right of the press to attend, but there was still no way of the press knowing when there was a meeting. The Era has been represented at three or four meetings since then, the last one before the end of the last school year. At that meeting, in response to a request from The Era, the board gave instructions that the press should be informed of all meetings and that facilities should be provided for reporting. We have not received notice of any meetings since that time, and so we presume that there have been no meetings with the exception of a short meeting last month called in a hurry. (Incidentally, when a council meeting is called at half an hour's notice the local press is always informed.) Now we feel that the high school board could have held several meetings since last June, with the local press present, and have discussed the pros and cons of the new courses and the proposed wing. We believe that the result would have been better informed voting and a great many more "ayes" on Monday.

Keep Public Informed

Practically all the members of the high school board will agree with what we have said. It is a lot easier for a public body to carry on public business in a satisfactory way when the public is kept informed of the problems, suggestions and discussions before the public body concerned. What were the facts which presented to the high school board made that body unanimously in favor of the new wing? Wouldn't those same facts, if presented in the same way at the same time, have made a majority of Newmarket's property-owners in favor of the project?

Courses Will Come

In conclusion, we would like to say a word on the merits of the new practical courses. As one man said, we should do everything possible to help young fellows get a start in life. No doubt there would be some young fellows who would take the courses and then think that they knew everything, but there would be others who would be helped to find the calling of which they would make a success. There are lots of boys and girls who will not benefit from the study of Latin or French, who could get some real education out of a judicious mixture of English, arithmetic, geography, history, and shopwork or household science. The shopwork will not make a skilled tradesman and the household science will not make an experienced housewife, but we doubt that any woman in this town would say, as some factory men have said about the shopwork, that household science training is of no value. There is many a man wishing his wife had studied the household arts in school, and there is many a woman wishing that her husband had had a chance in school to find the trade he was really suited for.

NORTH YORK UNIVERSITY

(Contributed by Leonard Harman)

Three addresses have been delivered in my hearing during the past week. The Hon. Norman McL. Rogers, federal minister of labor, spoke in the first civic forum of the season at Pickering College. Rev. E. J. Thompson of Aurora spoke on "The World Outlook for Christianity Today" at a conference of Anglican young people in Newmarket. Dr. Jack Lind, medical missionary from China, described conditions in that country at a chapel service in Pickering College.

Months removed from the heat of political controversy, the civic forum did not attract the attendance which a visit from the federal minister of labor deserves. It was an experience to hear a scholarly public man speak of public affairs without the silly little bickerings of a campaign. Questions and statements from the audience during the discussion period were aimed at the problems under consideration rather than arousing either support or opposition. It is indeed regrettable that such a moderate and thoughtful approach could not mark our elections.

An auto load of voters is passing our house at the present moment on its way to the polls. We are having a municipal election. Some time today I shall be marking a ballot. At this late hour I am not very clear about how that ballot should be marked. Other duties prevented me from attending the township nomination meeting. On previous occasions I have found it a hard day. During the noon hour a hall is packed with ratepayers. As the afternoon wears away all the region above our heads becomes thick with stale air and cigar smoke (from campaign cigars, no doubt). Each candidate talks about issues, real or imaginary. Each candidate blames someone else for the ills of the municipality. By evening one is more confused than when the process began. One wonders if there are any issues; one wonders if any of the candidates should be elected. One wonders if behind the scenes township government is passing into the hands of county and provincial bodies and trained engineers.

Dr. Thompson brought a message of tolerance and of participation in citizenship. He pointed to weaknesses in the growing European dictatorships. On the other hand he emphasized the importance of some of their objectives. He urged that we cannot afford to judge them hastily for their shortcomings and rush to attack their systems. Much better to build into our democracy the finest citizenship which our Christianity can devise. Dr. Thompson reminds us that nearly half the people of Canada are not of British origin. We, who are of British stock, would do well to recognize the contribution which various racial and national groups can make to our national development. There is yet hope in this country for that freedom, tolerance and justice which has run as a dream through our history.

Dr. Lind emphasized the needs of the Orient. China has forty million people suffering from tuberculosis. She has one hundred million refugees who wander homeless in a war-torn country. Our ten million people, scattered along a strip of continent, seem insignificant in number when compared with China's hordes. "Chinese papers criticize the Japanese army," said Dr. Lind in a conversation after his address, "feeling is not stirred against the Japanese people and on no account are Japanese civilians to be bombed by Chinese planes." There is still hope that the forces of peace in Japan may prevail upon the militarists to cease depriving the Japanese masses of their living in order to spend huge sums on the destruction of China.

The number of informative meetings and the number of good books available for the people of this area is very great. But we have gone only a little way in "so quickening the public sense of civic duty" that numbers of the people will come to grips with vital social problems: Europe and Asia in their turmoil offer little hope of sane democratic leadership in a chaotic world. The responsibility upon us increases. We simply must take a more active and more intelligent interest in public affairs.

Congratulations to J. O. Little, Dr. L. W. Dales, and the rest of the defeated candidates, on being excused from arduous duties, in free service to the public, during 1939.

In Fred A. Lundy the town acquires an experienced and able public servant.

In Dr. L. W. Dales the town loses a reeve who has achieved a lot for the town. Dr. Dales has had a big share in making Newmarket the northern county police centre. Dr. Dales has worked unceasingly for the new provincial cross-country highway. Dr. Dales has been full of ideas for the benefit of Newmarket. When he returns to the council board, after a turn at looking from the outside in, Dr. Dales will be no less valuable.

Dr. S. J. Boyd returns to the council as mayor. Dr. Boyd had an excellent record and it was no rebuff to the public-spirited J. O. Little that he came a close second.

POLICE COURT TOM FOSTER GETS A YEAR

Found guilty of possessing a still, Thomas Foster, East Gwillimbury township, was sentenced to six months in jail and in addition was fined $500 and costs, or an additional six months, by Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe in police court here on Tuesday. Foster was convicted on a similar offence in November, 1936, and his appeal was not granted. J. G. Edison, Toronto, was defence counsel for Foster, while K. M. R. Stiver represented Fred Hollingshead, Holland Landing, on the same charge.

The charge of possessing a still laid against Hollingshead was withdrawn, as were three other charges of possessing mash and spirits and distilling liquor. The three other charges laid against Foster were adjourned for hearing two weeks.

Foster and Hollingshead pleaded not guilty to all four charges. Constable Vern Williams, the first witness called, stated that he was making an investigation at Holland Landing this fall.

"I submit that what the officer did a week or month before the still was found is not relevant to the case," objected Mr. Edison. "Very well, your objection will go on the records," stated the magistrate.

"On Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 18, Constable Watt and I were going through the woods between the old Holland Landing road and the river," continued Constable Williams.

"We found a milk can that smelt strongly of brew, an old fire with plates on it, and an old barrel sunk in the ground, and these objects led us to believe that distilling was going on there. From Tuesday until Friday we kept the place in the woods under observation and saw no one there until Friday, Oct. 21. On that day I drove my car up the road and left it a quarter of a mile away and Watt remained in it. I went into the woods and saw some smoke issuing up through the trees, so I walked up to within 200 feet of where I could see a fire burning in a clearing. I was on the path directly north of the fire and had a very good view of the scene. I recognized Foster and Hollingshead, as I knew both previously. Hollingshead was tending the fire and Foster was handling a milk can at the south part of the still, which was set up in operation over the fire."

The milk can, a copper boiler with a funnel on the top, a length of lead pipe which fitted in the funnel, and a copper worm, were all identified by Constable Williams as the equipment he had seen over the fire. All the articles were put in as exhibits.

"I thought that Foster had seen me from the clearing so I started to run down the path toward the still," stated Constable Williams. "Hollingshead ran into the marsh and I couldn't catch him, so I followed Foster who had gone into the bush carrying an axe. I caught Foster 150 yards up the path and told him he was under arrest. He raised the axe in a threatening manner and I engaged with him and took it away, but he still refused to come with me. Rather than use too much force, I let Foster go on to his house and I said I would meet him there. I went back to the clearing and started to dismantle the still and then Constable Watt came along and assisted me. We carried the parts to the car and brought them down to the police station here, where they were locked in the vault. Seizure labels were placed on the articles."

"How long have you been on the police force?" asked Mr. Edison. "About five months," stated Constable Williams.

"What did you do before that?" "I object to these questions, as they have nothing to do with the case," stated N. L. Mathews, K. C., crown attorney.

"On the previous day when you were in the bush you found only a barrel in the ground and the remains of a fire?" "Yes."

"Don't you often find the remains of fires in the bush?" "No."

"Are there any houses near the bush?" "Tom Foster's house is on the corner of old Yonge St. and the Queensville road."

"How far back from the river bank was the clearing?" continued defence counsel.

"About 150 or 200 feet," answered Constable Williams.

"What was the previous arrangement you had with Watt for him to enter the bush?" "If I was not out by 10 a.m., he was to come and see what the matter was."

"I suggest that you didn't place Foster under arrest at all?" "I did," stated Constable Williams.

"I suggest that you never saw the men at the clearing?" "I did."

"I suggest your whole story has been fabricated?" "It is the whole truth."

"Who put out the fire?" "Constable Watt and I did."

"How close were you to Hollingshead when you saw him?" "I was about 200 feet away from him," answered Constable Williams.

"Was Hollingshead arrested?" "Yes, at a later date by Constable Watt."

"Did you not stop Hollingshead one day when he was driving Foster's truck and ask for his permit?" "Yes."

"Why didn't you arrest him then?" "I didn't have the warrant with me."

"Did you go to Foster's house to look for him?" asked Mr. Mathews.

"Yes, but he was not at home."

"We had Foster's house under observation after the still was found but we couldn't find Tom," stated Constable Watt. "On Oct. 20, Constable Williams and I were driving on a sideroad in East Gwillimbury between the fifth and sixth concessions when we saw Foster driving a team of horses with a load of gravel on the wagon about 200 feet away. As soon as my car came over a knoll, Foster jumped off the wagon, dropped the reins, climbed over a fence and started to run across a ploughed field. We ran after him and yelled at him to stop, and Constable Williams fired three shots in the air but Foster continued on and we lost him in the woods."

"I suggest that the crown is trying to bring out another charge that my client was escaping custody," objected Mr. Edison.

"I think you're right," stated the magistrate. "I'll rule against the other evidence."

"Is Constable Williams a member of the R.C.M.P.?" asked Mr. Edison.

"I have no knowledge of it," answered Constable Watt.

"Can you suggest when the equipment got in the clearing if you had the place under observation every day before you made the seizure?"

"It must have been brought there on the 20th after we left or early on the 21st."

"Did you ever visit Hollingshead's house?" asked Mr. Stiver.

"Only the night I arrested him."

Corporal Douglas Canniff, R. C.M.P., said that he had examined the equipment and that it was suitable for manufacturing spirits. Corp. Canniff stated that he had been in that line of work for 12 years and that he examined between 50 and 75 stills in a year.

"How many times has a still been brought into a court and yet the magistrate has ruled it is not a still?" asked Mr. Edison.

"I can never remember that happening," answered Corp. Canniff.

"At this point I will move for dismissal on two grounds," stated Mr. Edison. "First, the officer who is the complainant must be an inland revenue officer under federal law. He can be a R.C.M.P. officer but not a member of the York county police force. Secondly, the crown has not made out any case of possession, as the only evidence was that given by Constable Williams that he came into the clearing and saw the equipment."

"I am going to deny your motion for dismissal on the charge and ask for the defence," stated the magistrate. "Constable Williams was the informant in this case, but the charge was laid by Constable Nichol, R.C.M.P."

"Do you think Hollingshead has been sufficiently identified to go on with the case?" asked Mr. Stiver. "Yes," answered the magistrate.

"You are a well-known character in this part of the country?" asked Mr. Edison.

"Yes," answered Foster.

"The officer stated that he saw you in the clearing in the bush?" "I was not there that day."

"Where were you that day?" "I was on my own property with my axe cutting wood just beside a fence when I saw the constable coming. He asked me for my axe and said he would leave it at my house and went on into the bush."

"Did the equipment found in the clearing that morning belong to you?" "No."

"Did Williams put you under arrest?" "No."

"Do you know that bush well where the still was found?" "Yes."

"If Constable Williams was 250 yards away from you, would he be able as he said to catch you?" "No," answered Foster, and the answer caused laughter throughout the courtroom.

"Did you see any smoke in the bush?" asked Mr. Mathews.

"No."

"Had you finished cutting your load of wood when the constable came along and asked for your axe?" "Yes."

Hollingshead testified that he was around home the day that the still was found and that he was not at the bush.

"Have you ever been in trouble before?" asked Mr. Edison.

"No."

"Then you are not one of the suspected parties in this district?" "No."

Hollingshead stated under cross-examination by Mr. Mathews that he had never seen a still but that he lived at Holland Landing for 25 years. When asked if he had ever been in court before, Hollingshead answered he had been drawn into a liquor case a few years ago but that he had only seen part of a still at that time.

George Hollingshead, a son, testified that his father was at home working the day the still was found.

Constable Watt, when recalled to the stand, stated that the only wood they found cut that day was some fence rails which had been placed around the fire and that they didn't see any place where there was fresh cut wood.

"Why were you looking for wood?" asked Mr. Edison.

"I wasn't," answered the constable. "I was looking for Tom."

"I won't bandy words with you any more," replied Mr. Edison.

Constable Williams, when recalled to the stand, stated that he never asked Foster for the axe. When asked by Mr. Edison if he was interested in the case for financial reasons, Mr. Mathews objected to the question but the magistrate allowed it to stand. The constable stated that he had never been on a case before when a conviction was obtained, so he didn't know whether he would be paid or not.

Mr. Edison stated that the crown had not made out a case of possession, and that the evidence of Constable Williams was unsatisfactory and shouldn't be relied on by the court. The magistrate disagreed and stated that he found Foster guilty of the offence.

Convicted on a charge of illegally catching fish with a gill net, Alfred Port, Georgina Island, was fined $10 and costs of $2.75.

Port stated that he thought that Indians were allowed to fish anywhere with gill nets.

Game Warden Ernest Prosser stated that Indians were only allowed to fish with gill nets on the reserve.

For failing to report an accident, in which only his own car was involved, to the police, Lorne Avis, Aurora, was fined $10 and costs.

County Constable A. McCallum testified that a culvert west of Sutton had been moved seven inches by Avis's car, which he found at a garage as a total wreck. The value of the car was about $125, the constable said.

Avis testified that something happened to his steering wheel and the car went out of control and hit the culvert, but that as only his own car was involved he didn't tell the police, but he told his uncle, John Crawford, clerk of Whitechurch township, about it. Crawford stated he got in touch with the county engineer but that he was not able to learn the value of the damage to the culvert.

Gordon Shropshire, Newmarket, no dog license, $2.50 and costs, complaint laid by Wellington Curllis.

Mrs. Geo. Brown, Newmarket, no dog license, adjourned one week to see whether or not the dog is still living.

George Edwards, Sunderland, speeding, $8 and costs, 45 m.p.h., charge laid by Constable Kenneth Mount, Newmarket.

Gerald Martin, Penetanguishene, speeding, $15 and costs, charge laid by Provincial Constable A. O. Ferguson.

Two charges of reckless driving and having liquor in an illegal place laid against Frank F. Barber, Toronto, were dismissed by the magistrate. Mr. Richardson, Toronto, was defence counsel.

Constable Ferguson said he found a car in the east ditch on Yonge St. near Holland Landing, and the top and fender were badly damaged. Then he went to the hospital to see the driver, Mr. Barber, and the two other occupants of the car. Mr. Barber smelled strongly of alcohol at the hospital, the constable said. On going back to the scene of the accident he found several skid marks on the highway.

County Constable Aubrey Fleury stated that he arrived right after the accident and that there was a strong odor of alcohol in the car. The constable found a part bottle of liquor in the car and also several broken glasses, and the contents of a club bag which were strewn around the floor.

Mr. Barber testified that he was returning to Toronto from his cottage at Dorset, and that he had put a full bottle and a part bottle of liquor in a club bag to take back to the city. On the way down, the full bottle of liquor got broken in the bag and everything was soaked and the car was filled with the smell of alcohol, Mr. Barber stated. When they got near Holland Landing a car came over the hill on the wrong side, so he pulled over to the shoulder to avoid hitting it, and then his car heaved back against the ditch but didn't turn over, Mr. Barber stated. He had a drink before lunch at the cottage but that was about 3 p.m.

Miss Plummer also told the same story as Mr. Barber.

"I believe that an emergency existed and that the accused has explained the skid marks and that under the circumstances he did all that was possible to avoid an accident," stated the magistrate.

CARD OF THANKS
Mrs. Jesse Smith, of Sudbury, wishes to express thankfulness to all friends, who at many times gave assistance to her father, the late Mr. Wm. Haffie, of Keswick.

We would also turn, in thankfulness, to the wonderful providence, by whose kind and merciful hand, our aged father was finally led across the river, through one of its shallowest places, by way of no pain and no suffering, to that bright and happy land beyond the setting of the sun.

There is no death;
The sun that sets at night
Will rise again
On Heaven's eternal morn.

In Memoriam

Stickwood—In loving memory of a dear father, Robert Stickwood, who passed away Dec. 9, 1937. What is home without a Father, When his loving smiles no longer greet the coming of our foot. You were very true and patient, Through the years, you struggled on.

And those dear hands now resting Made a home that now is gone.

Dear Father we think of you And think of how you died, To think I could not say good-bye Before God closed your eyes. To those who have a father, Cherish him with care, There will never be another To fill his vacant chair.

Sadly missed by daughter, Mrs. John Smith, and family.

Wilton—In loving memory of George Wilton, who died Dec. 6, 1937. One year has passed, dear Father, Since you were called away, How well do I remember That sad and weary day. I have only your memory To remember my whole life through But the sweetness will linger on—over.

As I treasure the image of you.—Son, wife and family.

OLDER THAN SWING AND HAVE RHYTHM, IT IS SAID

Members of the Christian Endeavor of the Friends church enjoyed an especially fine meeting last Monday evening. Mrs. Burton Hill, secretary of the group, acted as chairman, and the topic was given by the president, Milton Keffer.

The subject was presented in an unusually interesting way when Mr. Keffer offered a psalm "quizz." The speaker stated that one should not be considered old-fashioned for reading the psalms, as they certainly contain rhythm, even though the psalms were written before swing music originated.

Twenty-three Christian Endeavorers are preparing a Christmas pageant, entitled "The Story Beautiful."

Penetang Wins 4-3 In Slashing Hockey Duel

Northerners Hand Out Injuries When Aurora Ties Up Score

The Aurora "Sooners"—they'd sooner attack than defend a winning lead—lost their hockey battle with Penetang in the northern junior series on Monday night. But Penetang had to pull everything up to attempted manslaughter to stop the Sooners in a tangle that ended in a 4-3 overtime victory for the northerners. Aurora's casualties are: Keith Knowles, concussion of the brain; Roy Collings, a nose that bears the mark of a nice new hockey stick; Gene McComb, the same, with possible fracture; P. Duncan, welts across the head and neck, and a pain from a little bit too much of somebody else's knee in the stomach, while he was on his back on the ice.

The game, as seen by a Midland reporter, was the "roughest seen in Midland in ten years."

Stars of the Sooners in Monday's fracas were Ross Follitt, defence ace, who scored nicely; Gord Bone, who shared defence duties with him; and Paul Knowles, defence alternate, Pete Duncan, new winger, and Michinik and Crowder, who both netted goals.

Aurora started the game slowly and Penetang tallied twice in the first period before they got really going. They made up for lost time in the second period, however, when Follitt went up to score and was followed a few minutes later by Crowder, who tied the count.

In the third period a hard shot by Michinik put Aurora in the lead. Then the trouble started.

TRAINER SUCCEEDS IN GETTING COP ON ICE

"Aren't you going out there to stop it?" Trainer Bill Patrick asked a policeman during the fighting at the Penetang hockey game on Monday.

"No," said the officer. "Then I am," replied Bill. "Oh, no, you're not," the constable protested. Bill pushed the officer to one side, however, and went out on the ice.

The constable followed. Further humor was added to the situation when the constable tried to stop Roy Collings from taking part in the fray. Roy wriggled out of the officer's grasp, "got his man" and amiably returned to the officer's side.

"I figured I was safer there," Roy explained afterward.

A Penetang lad slashed Keith Knowles across the head, sending him to the hospital. While serving a major penalty for this assault, he leapt out of the penalty box to take part in the fighting that was going on, and slashed Pete Duncan across the back of the head, putting him out cold for ten minutes.

Following the fighting, Penetang tied the score, about two minutes before time was called. In overtime, when both teams were limited to three men apiece, Penetang got the winning goal.

Keith Knowles went to the Midland hospital for treatment and x-ray, which showed no fracture. The hospital phone board was plugged with inquiries for the next hour, showing the interest taken in the game.

Life Insurance For Firemen Suggested To Councillors

Town Employees Could Be Included In Plan H. Bowman Says

High tribute was paid to the efficiency of the Aurora fire brigade by Hugh Bowman, who appeared before council on Monday night. Aurora's record was equalled by only two other towns in Ontario, he said.

He proposed that the town assist in taking out a life insurance policy that would give town employees and firemen policies of $1,000 each. If each employee and fireman contributed 60 cents a month, he said, the cost to the town would be $128.35. If 70 cents a month were contributed, the cost would be $133.85.

The cost would be further reduced, Mr. Bowman pointed out,

WILL STOP DANCING AFTER TWELVE O'CLOCK

County and town policemen are reported to be in agreement in regard to enforcing the midnight closing of dancing, etc., on Christmas and New Year's eve.

If only the firemen were insured. Seventy-five per cent of the men would have to agree to the proposal before it could become effective, he said. When men left the fire brigade they could take over the insurance themselves, if they wished.

The council, with only one more meeting to go before the end of their term, decided to refer the matter to the 1939 council.

Mr. and Mrs. Everson of Toronto visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roberts, last weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. John Till are leaving Virginia this week to take up residence in Toronto.

A large number of friends gathered at the Hadden farm on Monday evening, Dec. 5, to pay honor to Mr. and Mrs. Angus Hadden. The following address was read by Norman Rae:

Mr. and Mrs. Angus Hadden: We, your many friends, have assembled here this evening for the purpose of rejoicing with you on this happy occasion, namely the event of your recent marriage.

Angus needs no introduction to any of us, as he has grown up in our midst, and possesses all those qualities of character which mark a man a gentleman. At all times, Angus has been found a willing and faithful helper in all community affairs.

To you, Mrs. Hadden, we extend our congratulations and heartily welcome you to our community. One community's loss is another's gain and we appreciate the fact that we reap the gain. A person of your good principles and qualities should be an asset to any community.

We extend you our best wishes for a happy wedded life.

As a slight token of the high esteem in which you are held, we now ask you to accept these gifts, and as you use them may they serve to remind you of your many warm friends. Signed on behalf of the Virginia friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Hadden received two beautiful chairs, after which they both made suitable replies. Rev. N. S. Anderson also spoke on behalf of the young couple, following which a dainty lunch was served.

SANTA COMES SATURDAY

Aurora's own Santa Claus will stage a preview appearance on Saturday afternoon with gifts for all the youngsters present. The children, led by the Citizens' band, and escorted by members of the fire brigade, will parade on Yonge St. at 3 o'clock.

A huge Christmas parade is being prepared and arrangements are said to top all other years. Mayor Dr. C. R. Boulding and Morgan Baker, M.L.A., have been invited to act as Santa Claus' assistants on this occasion.

Town's Insurance Changes Hands Again By 4-3 Vote

Aurora's liability insurance, which came under fire last year, when the premium rose to $1,275, came up for renewal at the council meeting on Monday night.

"There are only two other class 'A' towns in Ontario, besides Aurora, as far as fire insurance rating is concerned," R. Poole, speaking for the company represented by Hugh Bowman, stated. "It is unfortunate that a town with such a record in fire insurance should have to pay more than 50 cents per person for liability insurance."

"This year we offer you a renewal at a substantially reduced premium and we expect to offer a similar reduction next year."

The company for whom Mr. Poole was speaking had had the insurance this year and had reduced claims paid to $4, discussion revealed. In the past six years claims paid by the former company had averaged $1,443 per year, Councillor George Baldwin pointed out. Last year the claims paid under the former company were over $5,000, and as a result the premium had steadily climbed, it was stated.

The premium asked by the company this year was $1,000, a reduction of $275. Other bids, all for an English insurance syndicate, were for a premium of $937.50.

The $937.50 bids came from J. M. Walton, D. M. Galbraith, and W. C. Curtis.

The bid of $937.50, through the agency of J. M. Walton, was accepted, and the insurance is now in the agency which has handled it in the past, with the exception of the present year.

"I would like a recorded vote on this matter," Mayor Dr. C. R. Boulding stated.

Those voting against renewal of the insurance with the company that handled the insurance, this year were Reeve J. A. Knowles, Councillors C. E. Sparks, L. K. Farr, and Dr. E. J. Henderson. Dr. Boulding, Deputy Reeve C. A. Malloy and Councillor George Baldwin voted to renew with this company.

Those who attended the young people's meeting at Norman Sedore's last Wednesday evening had a good time.

Survey Shows Dozen Getting Free Water

Check-Up Will Increase Town Revenue $50, Says Reeve

"About a dozen" water services were found to have been used for an indefinite time without cost, Reeve J. A. Knowles told the council on Monday evening.

"We recommend that all plumbing be requested to get permits when installing new services and when making alterations, and that they be notified by letter of this decision," the reeve reported, as a result of his committee checking over a survey made of the town's water services.

"Would it be possible to have a penalty attached?" asked Councillor Dr. E. J. Henderson.

"There would have to be a by-law," Mayor Dr. C. R. Boulding pointed out, stating that he doubted the value of the recommendation unless some penalty were attached for failure to comply with it. "We have only one more meeting," he said. "We could recommend it to the new council."

"In making this survey, we found quite a number of people who had alterations made to their homes and plumbing services, who were still being billed at their former rate," the reeve continued. "The town has been losing quite a bit of revenue from this source. There are quite a few people, about a dozen, who have never been charged for water. They have been charged now."

"There is a question of whether or not these people should be charged for some arrears," he stated.

"It would be hard to tell how

Aurora will hold its nomination day on Friday, Dec. 23, and will hold its election Monday, Jan. 2, a by-law passed by council on Monday provides.

long these people have been using such service," Town Clerk M. L. Andrews stated.

"I doubt if it would be legal to charge for services for which they have not been billed," stated the mayor. "Bill them from now on."

"With these charges we will pick up $50 to $100 a year," Mr. Knowles said.

"It is 11 years since we have had a survey," Mr. Andrews agreed.

"Is the survey complete?" the mayor asked.

"It is as thorough as time permitted," the reeve replied. "I think that the new council should also consider all out-door services such as main shut-offs. A thorough check should be made and a record kept in the clerk's office. We should not rely on the memories of town employees to locate shut-offs. We found a shut-off for Centre St. was located on Wellington St."

The reeve also criticized the situation by which homes which had been changed to apartments, were permitted a low rate to each of the apartments.

"Could not the committee bring in a by-law to change the situation?" inquired Dr. Boulding.

"A by-law has been passed," the clerk declared, stating that the situation had been dealt with several years ago.

SOMETHING NEW

"I have called this meeting on my own initiative to allow the candidates to speak freely and the people to hear the town problems discussed at leisure," stated Reeve Dales. "We do not have time at the nomination meeting to tell the work of 52 weeks in five or ten minutes."

The Common Round

By Isabel Inglis Colville
NOT AS PLANNED

"Let's make our Christmas cake this morning," said I.
"This is Friday," observed a friend who had dropped in for a minute.
"I'm not superstitious," said I, somewhat loftily.
"It's not the sort of morning that makes one think of anything Christmassy," observed mother.
"I feel it in my bones that it's the one and only day to make that cake," said I stubbornly.
"So be it," said mother philosophically, and our visitor added: "I'll be interested to know how things go."
"Friday—the ideal!" but I got no further, for from the shed came growls, and piteous mews.
"Those cats of yours take as much waiting on as royalty," said mother disgustedly, as she prepared to cut peels and cherries, and marshal various items which go to the making of that compound of "sugar and spice and all things nice" which we designate "Christmas fruit cake."
Well, for pity's sake, I ejaculated as I looked unbelievably at a fur covered skeleton parked on the shed steps.
"What now?" asked my parent, "do leave those animals alone and let's get on with the cake."
"Look," I gasped.
"Look at what?" and then as I dragged the bedraggled object in, "Oh dear, another cat!"
"Yes, but it's OUR cat that disappeared in August," I told her, and sure enough, starved, half frozen and terrified, here was Puff.
Where she had been was a mystery, but I proceeded to try to thaw and feed her.
"Oh well, I may as well wait," said mother, with resignation written large all over her.

Eventually, I got back to the cake and was heating and stirring and discussing plans for Christmas when a knock came to the door.
"Oh me," I sighed as I left my cake again. This time it was a stranger—a young girl. "Can I speak to you a moment?" she begged.
Seeing no car, and no suspicious case or bag, and thinking it might be some one wanting information I said "yes."
She proceeded to tell me she was a school teacher, who, with others, could have a trip to the coast, if she could get a certain number of signatures.
"To what?" I asked, naturally.
"Oh, it's just a small sum for a subscription to a magazine," said she glibly.
Now I had neither money nor time, at this time for that magazine, although magazines are a terrible temptation to me, and I said so.
"And you would help to deprive me of a trip and a job," said she, with a good imitation of near tears.
It ended in my subscribing just as I had for two others whose agents came with pitiful tales, and I went back to my cake with a temper in no wise fit to cope with that sticky delicacy.
"You're terribly soft-hearted," said mother.
"I know," I admitted, having a sneaking idea that the smug smile on the girl's face was more at the ease of her victory than at pleasure at the sale. I had just put the last spoonful into the pan and was preparing to give Puff another meal, when, "There's someone at the door," sighed my parent.

"Don't I know it?" I groaned.
This time it was some people we had not seen for years, so while mother greeted them, I popped the cake into the oven, and then trying to look as if I hadn't the thought of the oven temperature and a returned cat, who gave me an imploring look as I left the kitchen, on my mind, I joined the group in the living room and proceeded to talk and be talked to.

"Do I smell something burning?" asked Mrs. F. and on going to investigate, I found I was just in time to prevent a dire calamity.

By this time I didn't dare look at mother, for I knew that our thoughts were both in the oven.

Just then came a roar from the kitchen and I fled.

Poor Puff had taken refuge under the stove and Cappy whose particular sanctum that happened to be, was with threats and oburgations, daring her to come out and settle their differences. I heard our visitors say, "We only meant to stay a minute and we've been here an hour," and leaving the unsettled difficulty behind me, I put on calmness as a garment and went to say goodbye.

We had just opened the door when a whirlwind breezed through the hall. Right between the feet of one of the visitors went Cappy, and up my back as if it had been a ladder, went Puff.

"When we managed to untangle ourselves, both cats disappeared and our good-byes were somewhat more pleasant, if less exciting."

"Will you ever make a fruit cake on Friday again?" asked mother, as we examined the cake and prepared dinner.

"I'd do it next Friday—if I had to—" I affirmed valiantly—"only PLEASE don't tell Mrs. H. all that belf or she will surely say, 'I told you so!'"

ONTARIO'S FIRST PAID-IN-ADVANCE WEEKLY

When anyone subscribes to the Era, and there are people doing it every day, it is not necessarily a life sentence. The Era does not come year after year regardless of whether or not it is wanted. Anyone who does not want The Era in his home, has merely not to renew it. A request to discontinue is appreciated, but is not necessary. The Era stops automatically.

People prefer the paid-in-advance system. That is why The Era has twice the paid circulation of any other weekly in this district.

Clark Cup Winner in 1935, 1936, and 1938 for the best Canadian weekly of 1,000 to 2,000 circulation.

A progressive community deserves a progressive newspaper.
